Lackey Philip, leather cutter, Smith David, hosier, New-street M LeanWin.coppersmithBarrack-st. O'Rourke Patrick, apothecary,

Redmond Ann, haberdasher, Mar-Recves Isaac, hat manufacturer

Reeves Isaac, hat manufacturer, Temple Shannon Temple Shannon The Day Cleach to Dublin at eight in the morning.

The Day Cleach to Dublin at eight in the morning.

The Day Cleach to Dublin at eight in the morning.

The Day Cleach to Dublin at eight in the evening.

A Car goes every morning at eight

COACHES, &c.

The Mail for Dublin at three quarters, past five in the evening.
The Wexford Mail at three-quarters past seven in the morning.

The Day Coach to Dublin at eight in the (except Sunday) from Mr. Reade's, Market-street, to New Ross, Water-ford, Kilkemy, Corrick, Cashel, Thurles Clonnel, Limerick, Tipperary and Cork, and returns on the following day at five in the evening.

CARRIERS.

There are no regular Carriers ;-but Cars may be hired to any part of the

FRANKFORD,

A SMALL market town, situated in the King's County 56 miles west by south of Dublin, 12 north west of Montrath, six east by north of Cloghan, 10 north east of Banagher, and 10 south west of Tullamore. Although small, consisting of one street only, which, it is expected, will be finished about three years ago by Mr. Henry Price. At present there is no Inn in this town, but preparations are making for one by Mrs. Gaynon, which, it is expected, will be finished about the lateral which is a charitable institutions of this it is a neat town, and has a handsome slated Roman Catholic Chapel. About a mile distant, at a village called Ballyboy, stands the church, which was built about four years ago of stone, and in the modern style; it has a tower and one bell. Adjacent to it is a free pa-rochial school for boys and girls, who are taught reater End of 1824. The charitable institutions of this town are a dispensary, and an asylum for six aged widows. Population 850. The market day is on Saturday, and Fairs are held on the 28th of May and the 8th of November

POST OFFICE is at Ballyboy, one mile from the town; Post Master, Mr. John Drought. The Dublin Mail is despatched every day at four in the afternoon, and returns at half past eight in the morning. A By-mail every day at four to Tullamore, Kilbeggan, Phipstown, and Clara. Letters for England and Scot-

NOBILITY, GENTRY AND CLERGY.

Blakeley Mrs. Buchanan Rodolphus, esq. Lattimore Noble, Ensign 91 Drought Robert, esq. Ridge-mount Lynch Rev. Walter Fitzsimons Nichl, esq. Castle-woodl Magauly Countess, Temora Flanagan Simon, esq. Gaynon Peter F. esq. Hobbs George, esq.

Lattimore Noble, Ensign 9th Regt. Mitchell Adam, esq. Barnaby Molloy John, esq.

Hobbs Capt. Thomas, Greenhills | Parker John, esq. Collector of land tax, Ballyboy Salmon Licut, Henry, 10th Regt. Toot, H.P. Stoney Andrew, esq. Whitfield Lieut, William, 62nd Regt.

MERCHANTS TRADESMEN, &c.

Grady Jno. linen & woollen draper

Laugton Mary Ann, grocer 9

Garrett Jas, tallow chandler

Forster Thos, miller

PROFESSIONAL GENTLEMEN.

Haslam Drought, surgeon Haslam John, attorney

SHOPKEEPERS, Mahon Daniel, grocer
TRADERS M'Donald John, grocer
Dechan Jn. linen & woollen draper Molloy Patrick, linen draper

Mooney James, baker 🕞 Murray John, baker

PUBLICANS. Burriss Beajamin Gaynon Mary Ann, hotel YM Cormick Thomas M'Redmond Thomas

GOREY, OR NEWBOROUGH.

as some in the contract of the

S a borough, market, and post town, in the county of Wexford, 45 miles south of Dublin, and eighteen north of wexford. It received a charter from James 1. and it is governed by a sovereign and 12 burgesses. The town stands on an eminence; and the country around being beautifully varied with hills, vales, and woods exhibits to the view some delightful scenery. The church, a very handsome stone building with a tower, is pleasantly situated at the upper end of the town the Rev. Dean Browne is the present rector. It pos-sesses also a Roman Catholic chapel; a market-house, built of stone and brick; a new sessions' house where the sessions are held twice a year, and the petty sessions every Wednesday by the neighbouring magistrates; and a savings' bank, which, though only opened in 1822, has already in its funds upwards of 3001. The charitable institutions are numerous, viz: two free schools for children of all denominations, in which upwards of two hundred and fifty boys and girls are educated; a sunday-school of the established church; a poor shop, that sells out clothing to the poor at the original cost, and allows them to pay by small instalments; a charity for giving out blankets and fuel at half price, by which upwards of two hundred poor families receive relief, principally, it is su Q posed, by the munificence of Mr. Ram; a fever hospital and dispensary, supported by subscription and grants from the grand jury; and a ladies' society, connected with the British and Irish association, for giving employment to the female poor. Within a quarter of a mile of the place is Ramsfort park, where once stood the beautiful seat of Colonel Rain, which was burnt down during the rebellion of 1798; it now contains only a small lodge. The whole of the town belongs to Mr. Ram, with the exception of the two extremities, in which are built some small thatched cabins. Nor must we omit to mention the seat of Earl Courtown, about two miles from Gorey. The improvements are great, and near it is constructing a fine harbour by private subscription, which will afford shelter for small vessels, give considerable commercial importance to the town, and greatly promote the fisheries, which are already very extensive. The beach is much frequented in the bathing season by the neighbouring gentry. The market is on Saturday, and the fairs are on January the 1st, May the 8th, June the 1st, July the 10th, August the 31st, and October the 27th, for cattle, sheep, pigs, and woollens. Population about 2500.

POST OFFICE.—Post Mistress, Mrs. Ann Harper. The Dublin mail arrives at half-past five in the morning, and is despatched immediately for Wexford. The Wexford mail arrives at half-past eight in the evening, and immediately proceeds for Dublin. The Oulart mail arrives at half-past seven in the evening, and returns at half-past five the following morning. The office is closed at eight in the evening. Letters for England and Scotland are forwarded by the Dublin mail.

NOBILITY, GENTRY AND CLERGY.

Courtown Earl, Courtown
Doyle Miss
Esmonde Sir Thos. Balliostraw
Gowen Capt. John Hunter, MountOwen Rev. Roger, Kilbridge

Owen Capt. Robt. Sovereign, Millmount Webb Rev. Hugh Geo. Webb Arthur W. esq. Clonatin

MERCHANTS, TRADESMEN, &c.

PROFESSIONAL GENTLEMEN.

ACADEMIES Nolan James, (commercial)
Tottenham Miss, (ladies' boarding)

BAKERS. Ebbs Samuel thbs Joseph Hàrley Daniel 2

BOOT AND SHOEMAKERS Hall Patrick

Austin Edward Driver Chas. √Kenna Patrick Miller John, jun. Mitter Thomas ... Rawson Henry Sharp Thomas

CARINET MAKERS

Pealson Edward Pierce Roger GROCERS.

✓ Cartan Hugh Harper Ann

> LINEN AND WOOLLEN-DRAPERS Berney John

Cartan Mary, (linen only) Hamilton Jas. M. D.
Lipset Edward, surgeon and apo-Kinsey Judith thecary

Murray Margaret, (linen only)

PUBLICANS.

Crain Elizabeth Douohoe Wm. Doyle Elizabeth Doyle Garrett Doyle Thos. Forlong Richd. Flopkins Robt. Hughes Michael Lacy Peter Mulligan John Ponder Francis Redmond James

SADDLERS AND HARNESS-MAKERS.

Bateman Henry Earl Edward Hollingsworth John Webster Matthew

STRAW BONNET-MAKERS

Ponder Catharine Redmond Lydia

TANNERS.

Green James Woodroofe Abel

Miscellaneous.

Borbridge John, hatter Lee Richd, house painter and gla-Azier
Mic Daniel Ann, milliner
Redmond Patrick, tailor
Regers Richard, surveyor
Stephens Wm. tin plate-worker and brazier Webster Richd, high constable

COACHES.

The Dublin Mail at half-past eight in the evening.
The Wexford Mail at half-past five in the morning.
The Dublin Day Coach at eleven in the morning.
The Wexford Day Coach at four in the Cars leave for Dublin every fortnight through Ratherum, Newtown-Mount-Kennedy, and Bray, and return by the some route.

GRANARD

If S an inland post, and market town, in the county of Longford, situated fifty-two miles north-west of Daimi, initien east of Longford, thirteen south of Cavan, and eighteen north of Mullingar. Here is a very remarkable hill or mount, called the mount of Granard, thought to be artificial, and to have been a strong fortification of the Danes. On the 5th of September 1798, a famous battle was fought here between the rebels and the yeomany; upwards of six thousand of the insurgents appeared before the town early in the morning, when the yeomany, not more than them bunded in number, manifully sallied forth, there bendered bundered in number, manifully sallied forth, early in the morning, when the yeomanry, not more than three hundred in number, manfully sallied forth, and after a sharp contest dispersed them, leaving many dead in the field. The place contains a small Gothic church, a Roman Catholic chapel, and good barracks, capable of holding three hundred soldiers.

linen, yarn, and provisions. There are two fairs in the year, one for store cattle on the 3rd of May, and the other for fat cattle on the first of October. Population about 2,000.

POST OFFICE.—Post Master, Mr. Simon Griffiths. The Dublin letters arrive by horse from Edgworthstown, every morning, at eight, and are despatched at five in the evening.—The office is open from eight in the morning to ten at night