

poration. The government is now vested in the magistrates, who hold general sessions for the west-riding in October or November, and petty sessions for the division every Monday. Manorial courts for the recovery of debts under 40s. are held once in three weeks respectively, by the seneschals of the different manors of Castle Mahon, Coolgadda, and Clough M'Simon, belonging to the noblemen before-named. Bandon returns one member to the Imperial Parliament, in the person of the Right Hon. Lord Viscount Bernard, of Bernard Castle. Bandon confers the title of baron on the family of Bernard.

There are two churches under the establishment, belonging respectively to the parishes of Ballymodan and Kilbrogan—the former is not distinguished by any striking feature, architectural or otherwise. Kilbrogan church, commonly called Christ church, is a cruciform structure, begun in 1610, and finished by the first Earl of Cork in 1625. The other places of worship are two spacious and handsome Roman Catholic chapels—one of which was built in 1796; one each for Wesleyan and Primitive Methodists; one for Presbyterians; a Scots church, and a chapel attached to the Presentation Convent. The sisters of the last-named establishment devote themselves assiduously to the instruction of the poor children of the town and its vicinity. Bandon, considering its extent, is remarkable for its charitable institutions, having a fever hospital, a dispensary, a union workhouse, a female school of industry, a Protestant charity school for boys, two Catholic charity schools for children of both sexes, and several Sunday schools. About half a mile west of the town is Castle Bernard, the delightful residence of the Earl of Bandon. The elegant structure has two regular fronts, ornamented with Corinthian pillars of Portland stone; the apartments are sumptuously furnished and convenient, and the mansion is surrounded with tastefully disposed shrubberies, walks, gardens, and a noble park four miles in extent. Numerous other seats, the residences of opulent and spirited proprietors, tend to enliven the vicinity of Bandon. The markets, which are well supplied with all kinds of provisions and cattle, are held on Wednesday and Saturday. Fairs, May 6th, Ascension day, October 29th, November 8th, and the first Wednesday in each of the other months. The population of the town and borough, in 1841, was 9,049.

INISHANNON is a post village and parish, partly in the barony of East Carbery, but chiefly in that of Kinalea, same county as Bandon, 4 miles E. of that town; seated on the north bank of the Bandon river, in the midst of picturesque scenery. This pleasant village, and the contiguous lands, have lately become the property of Colonel Freen, by a decree of the Court of Chancery in his favour, and adverse to Edward Hall Adderly, Esq. its late possessor. A great number of boats arrive here with every tide, laden with sand from Kinsale harbour. The river, which is crossed by a neat bridge of six arches, abounds with fish above the town. The places of worship are the parish church and a Roman Catholic chapel—the former, situated near the river in a thick plantation, is a very neat edifice, with a square tower. A fever hospital and a dispensary are the charitable establishments. Population of the village 625.
